Landscape
With
Fragmented Figures
A Novel
By Jeff Vande Zande

"This new novel is a wonderful contemporary working-class story, a crafted story and an engaging page-turner filled with keen detailing and vivid style—an intense story about real people involved in day-to-day life experiences that readers will identify with and relate to their own neighborhoods and Midwest houses, not in New York, LA or Chicago. This is a novel full of working-class heart and soul that will appeal to all readers." —M.L. Liebler

© The Long River Home A Novel by Larry Smith

A family saga set in the heart of Appalachia

"It's all here, set, in the grand tradition of Wendell Berry and Conrad Richter, against the Ohio landscape: its hills and its rivers, its frontier beginnings and its later industrial development. We care about the place and its people."

—Annabel Thomas

Reply to an Eviction Notice Selected Poems

Robert Flanagan

Flanagan wins me with his rich humor and compassion, his keen ear and sharp eye, his technical skill, his ability to slam a poem shut with a crash, his way with simile and metaphor. Here is a rich, long overdue gathering of Flanagan's finest and most insightful poems, the harvest of four decades. Open this book and you just might find it irresistible. — X. J. Kennedy

Daily Bread A Portrait of Homeless Men & Women of Lenawee County, Michigan

By Jennifer Burd
Photographs by Lad Strayer

Developed from a series of articles and photographs on homelessness in Lenawee County, Michigan, which ran in the Adrian Daily Telegram newspaper and received a Michigan Associated Press Editorial Association award.

"The lyrical images from Daily Bread are beautiful and haunting at the same time, a reminder that those we shut out still do strive for a dignified existence, whether or not we choose to acknowledge them...." —Jyothi Bathina,

The Kanshi Poems Of Taigu Ryōkan

Translated by
Mei Hui Liu Huang
& Larry Smith
Laughing Buddha Series

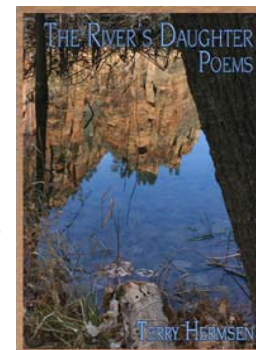

100 poems by Japan's great poet monk Taigu Ryōkan (1758-1831) included in English, original Chinese, and in Japanese.

"These poems, wise and direct, have been rightly treasured for centuries because of the way they expand the mind and refresh the spirit. That is their nature in their original language, and Smith and Huang have managed, with great care and affection, to recreate that nature in English." —David Young, poet and translator

◎ The Lecture on Dust Poems

by Brooke Horvath

"Lecture on Dust is in good part an exploration of the triumph of love and companionship, but it's much more than 'All you need is....' 'What the hell's the deal with serenity anyway?' the poet exclaims.... Indeed, what's the deal? The deal is that poetry is the ultimate exploration."

An Unmistakable Shade of Red & The Obama Chronicles

Mary E. Weems

In this deftly crafted collection—defiantly rooted in the real world—Mary Weems' stanzas manage to be both tight and explosive, concise and wildly lyrical. She brings an enviable experience to the page, an experience fueled by unerring focus and a knowledge of just what it takes to jolt a reader out of complacency. —Patricia Smith

In these poems Mary Weems both challenges and embraces America in all its turbulence and beauty. We should be grateful. —George Bilgere
